

City Launches Pedestrian Accessibility Map

Following a presentation at today's Council meeting, the City is pleased to launch a new Pedestrian Accessibility Map, available from the City's website and Let's Talk Parksville.

The interactive map identifies accessible parking stalls, washrooms, pathways, and community amenities, along with elevation details for sidewalks and trails. Created by the City's GIS staff, the map provides benefits to the public:

- Improves independence by allowing residents and visitors to plan routes that best meet their accessibility needs.
- Increase awareness of accessibility features and barriers throughout the City.
- Supports informed decision making for daily travel, recreation and access to services.

Whether using a mobility aid, pushing a stroller or getting around a challenging terrain, this map can help plan the safest route. The City of Parksville recognizes the importance of accessibility for everyone.

Link to the City's new Pedestrian Accessibility Map. Information about the City of Parksville's accessibility plan and accessibility projects is available on Let's Talk Parksville.

###

For more information:

Deb Tardiff, Manager of Communications
communications@parksville.ca; 250 954-3073

---

The City of Parksville is located on the traditional territory of the Coast Salish Nations, home to the Snaw-Naw-As First Nation and the Qualicum First Nation.