VANCOUVER ISLAND OVERVIEW

Situated on the west coast of Canada, Vancouver Island is the largest island on the west coast of the Americas, encompassing an area of 31,261 square kilometres, about 460 kilometres long and 50 to 80 kilometres wide. Without Vancouver Island, the coasts of British Columbia and Washington would not have such features as the ports of Vancouver and Seattle, the Gulf Islands, the Inside Passage or the mild, protected climate these areas enjoy.

The capital of British Columbia is Victoria, situated on the southern tip of Vancouver Island. Vancouver Island is known for its diversity of nature, weather, scenery and wildlife, making it a world class destination for tourists and a paradise for residents. The diverse climate and geography of the island have created a magnificent backdrop for the many activities such as fishing, boating, cycling, skiing, kayaking, whale watching, sightseeing, and beachcombing.

LOCATION

The City of Parksville is located 150 kilometres north of the provincial capital of Victoria and 37 kilometres north of Nanaimo. The region is referred to as the “mid-island” or “central island” area, due more to its proximity to populated areas than its geographical location. To the west of Parksville is Canada’s rugged west coast with the cities of Port Alberni, Ucluelet and Tofino which offer excellent recreational facilities and spectacular scenery. North of Parksville is Qualicum Beach, Courtenay, Comox, Campbell River and Port Hardy. These municipalities provide services to the north island area and provide excellent recreational facilities. Many facilities and activities are within 2.5 hours of Parksville, with the majority being within an hour drive. Parksville is a 30-minute drive from the City of Nanaimo which offers shopping, theatres, ferries, airlines, and a seaport. Further south is the City of Victoria, capital of British Columbia and a major center of tourism and business.

The City of Parksville is part of the Regional District of Nanaimo which includes the City of Nanaimo, City of Parksville, Town of Qualicum Beach, District of Lantzville, and areas surrounding these centers.

FIRST NATIONS ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The City of Parksville is located on the traditional territory of the Coast Salish Nations, home to the Snaw-Naw-As First Nation and the Qualicum First Nation.

GEOGRAPHY

The City of Parksville is situated in a protected bay on the east coast of Vancouver Island. The area is mostly level with gently rolling hills. To the west, a mountain range protects the area from the wet Pacific weather systems that nourish the west coast rainforests. Mount Arrowsmith is the closest mountain to Parksville rising 1,817 metres (5,961 feet). To the north and south, the rolling coastline continues. The waterfront forms the northern border of the City and the warm ocean waters provide for a mild climate. The area has many rivers and streams with a few lakes to the north and west. Small islands dot the inner coastline with larger islands to the north and south in the Strait of Georgia. The Strait of Georgia separates Vancouver Island from the mainland of British Columbia and forms the majority of the famous “Inside Passage” marine route to northern British Columbia and Alaska. The Inside Passage is used by yachts, cruise ships and commercial vessels.

CLIMATE

The City of Parksville enjoys a mostly mild, sunny climate due to the sea-level elevation and protected location. The predominantly wet Pacific weather systems of the west coast release their moisture as they cross the Vancouver Island mountains, resulting in a much drier climate on the east coast. The mild climate and low rainfall have been instrumental in attracting large numbers of retirees from across Canada to the area. Although Parksville enjoys a four-season climate, it is not unusual to see golfers on the course in January while skiers enjoy the deep powder of nearby mountains and boaters are enjoying the ocean.

HISTORY

Vancouver Island’s southeastern coast has been inhabited by the Coast Salish First Nations people for thousands of years. The Coast Salish had villages and settlements extending from Victoria to Campbell River when Captain George Vancouver explored the area’s coast in 1792. In the 1860’s, a trail was blazed up island from Victoria to Comox. The area was then known as “Englishman’s River” or “The River” after an Englishman supposedly died crossing the unnamed river in the 1850’s.

The Hirst family was the first settlers to the area, arriving in 1870 and quickly followed by other settlers willing to pay $1 an acre for raw, uncleared land. In 1886, a 38 km long wagon road was completed from Nanaimo. By 1889, the area population was 38, enough to become the official settlement of Parksville, named after John Parks, the area's first postmaster. In 1894, the first church was built at French Creek and in 1898, the Hirst family opened the Rod & Gun Hotel, still open today. By 1910, the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway (E&N) connected the area to Nanaimo at McBride Junction, the site of the old Parksville train station. Parksville's early growth and an anecdotal history of early settlers is documented in a book written by local historian, Marjorie Leffler, entitled Parksville and Then Some.

In 1945, Parksville was incorporated as a village, becoming a town in 1978. By 1981, the population exceeded 5,000 and Parksville officially became a City. In the mid 1990’s, Parksville reached an unprecedented growth rate that consistently exceeded 5% per year, resulting in a 1997 population of just over 10,000 people. Parksville has continued to grow and thrive to the present day, welcoming many new residents and visitors.

PARKS

City Parks

The City of Parksville has three major parks, the Parksville Community Park, Springwood Park, and Top Bridge Park, as well as 28 neighbourhood parks. The neighbourhood parks vary in size and facilities, from small open spaces to larger parks with children's play areas, trails, and basketball hoops. Among the neighbourhood parks are several natural, treed parks complete with accessible nature trails.

The Parksville Community Park was established in 1963 and encompasses 39 acres of land complete with beach frontage. Facilities include sandy public beach, washrooms, children's play park and water park, outside shower, flower displays, varied tree collection, sports field, tennis and pickle ball courts, beach volleyball courts, waterfront walkway, group picnic shelter, outdoor theatre, skateboard park, picnic tables and ample free public parking. A group picnic shelter and a beach-front gazebo are available for bookings for special events and weddings.

Springwood Park is Parksville's main sports field complex which encompasses 21 acres made up of six ball diamonds, six tennis courts, grass fields for soccer, field hockey, field lacrosse, football, with a perimeter trail system connecting to the 13.5-hectare (32 acre) Ermineskin Park trail system and the Maple Glen linear park trail.

Top Bridge Park consists of 15 acres, encompassing walking trails, a mountain-biking trail system, and a pedestrian-only suspension bridge spanning the Englishman River. This bridge links the trails to the RDN trail system across the river. The park is a popular local outdoor swimming area for families during the summer months.

Regional, Provincial and National Parks

There are many regional, provincial and national parks in the immediate area. These parks serve a variety of recreational and environmental purposes. The Regional District of Nanaimo operates more than a dozen regional parks, which include many walking, hiking and cycling trails. Complete information on regional parks and trails, including maps, can be found on the RDN website <https://www.rdn.bc.ca/regional-parks-and-trails>.

BC Parks has designated several provincial parks in the Parksville area, and in neighbouring communities. Rathtrevor Beach Provincial Park is a popular camping spot located in Parksville.

Spider Lake and Horne Lake are popular lake destinations for swimming or boating, and Horne Lake also boasts many incredible natural caves that can be explored on guided tours. Little Qualicum Falls and Englishman River Falls are home to beautiful walks complete with waterfalls. MacMillan Park, often known as Cathedral Grove, is the site of an awe-inspiring old-growth forest with trees more than 800 years old.

The Pacific Rim National Park Reserve is only a few hours' drive from the Parksville area on the west coast of Vancouver Island. The park is home to the world-famous Long Beach, West Coast Trail and the Broken Group Islands. The Gulf Islands National Park Reserve of Canada is also located nearby, including Mayne Island, Saturna Island and Pender Island.

POPULATION AND GROWTH

The 2021 Census showed the population of Parksville as 13,642 residents, an increase of 9.5% from 2016. This compares to the provincial average of 7.6% and the national average of 5.2%. The land area of the City of Parksville is 14.56 square kilometres, and the population density was 939 people per square kilometre. In 2021, there were 6,754 private dwellings occupied in the City of Parksville, which represents a 11.5% increase from 2016.

Historically, the growth rate of Parksville has exceeded both the province and the region. Parksville's mild climate and excellent location have always attracted retirees, and the City can anticipate further growth from this rapidly growing sector of the population.

Parksville offers an attractive lifestyle, fast and easy access to major centers, state-of-the-art communication systems and proximity to world-class recreational resources. As new businesses realize the advantages of locating in lifestyle-orientated communities, Parksville should continue to experience further growth of residents and businesses. By encouraging new business and educational facilities, Parksville hopes to continue to attract a skilled, educated and diverse labour force within the community.

The population of Parksville is noticeably different than both the provincial and national averages. This is due to the large number of retirees in the area. According to the 2021 Census, the median age in the City of Parksville was 56.7 years. In comparison, the median age of British Columbia was 42.8 years. In 2021, the percentage of the population aged 65 and over in Parksville (CY) was 47%, compared with a national percentage of 19%.

ECONOMY

Parksville is an extremely attractive destination for families with young children, retirees and tourists. Parksville's beautiful natural setting and mild climate allows for many outdoor activities year-round; the area is home to many excellent golf courses, as well as local businesses catering to outdoor hobbies including surf shops and bicycle stores. Parksville is also fortunate to enjoy many of the amenities of a larger city, including unique shops, world class spas, and a wide range of dining and accommodation options to suit a variety of visitors.

The resource-based industries of forestry and fishing that once dominated the economy have been surpassed by the growth in the retail, wholesale trade, construction and many health and education sectors. Health, education, finance and real estate are sectors which have grown continuously to become major markets in Parksville's economy. With a sizeable trade area encompassing residents from Bowser to NanOOSE there is potential for economic growth.
